Visa Selects BCE Emergis for Global Work on Next-Generation B2B Payment Service

Visa Commerce promises global B2B payment and information management platform

Montreal, July 15, 2002 -- BCE Emergis Inc. (TSX: IFM) announced today that it was selected by Visa International to support worldwide development and hosting of Visa Commerce, extending a contract previously reached with Visa U.S.A. As Visa's other worldwide regions deploy pilot bank implementations of Visa Commerce — the new non-card based, integrated B2B payment and information management solution utilizing the VisaNet global payment network — they can now take advantage of economies of scale and common implementation strategies, resources and programs.

BCE Emergis envisions that Visa Commerce will become the leading choice for buyers, suppliers, and service providers to pay and settle supply chain and purchasing transactions, which may represent an estimated 90 billion transactions valued at US$50 trillion per year, worldwide. Buyers use Visa Commerce— which can integrate with their back office and procurement systems — to approve, schedule, initiate and facilitate reconciliation of domestic and cross border payments for purchases. Suppliers can request, review, and receive payments electronically. Visa Commerce is designed to deliver this functionality through Visa's 21,000 member financial institutions worldwide, who will be able to offer commercial customers a Visa/bank-branded payment account, an optional web-based user interface, and a proven, secure transaction platform using VisaNet, the world's most reliable payment network. Under the original agreement with Visa U.S.A., announced in July 2001, BCE Emergis was integral to the development, operation, and hosting of core components of Visa Commerce. Visa and BCE Emergis are currently working with several top banks on their individual pilots.

"Expanding the Emergis relationship with Visa on a global basis builds on our respective core competencies, existing infrastructures, and extensive experiences to deliver a truly integrated payment and information management solution for B2B e-commerce," said Pierre Blouin, CEO of BCE Emergis. "Developing and hosting Visa Commerce components globally will mean we can offer tremendous efficiency, consistency, and economies of scale to Visa and its member financial institutions — and that is central to our B2B vision. We believe financial institutions should take the lead in B2B payments because of their trusted and efficient role in financial settlement and treasury management services. Visa's global reach and proven, reliable payment infrastructure ideally position Visa Commerce to become a global B2B standard."

BCE Emergis announces new Biller Direct service

- Bell Canada first customer
- Service looks to increase adoption

Montreal, July 22, 2002 — BCE Emergis Inc. (TSX:IFM), a leading provider of eCommerce services, today announced the introduction of Emergis® Biller Direct, its newest e-Billing service. This offering can be used as a stand-alone service, or in conjunction with Emergis' webdoxs™ consolidator presentment services.

Biller Direct enables companies to use their existing web sites to present bills and statements directly to their consumers, and leverage the content of their online documents to deliver improved customer service and targeted marketing communications. These are key features for billers and give Emergis an added tool in enlarging the base of billers on its B2B2C presentment platform in Canada. The webdoxs service has been in production for over 2 years, and has over 440,000 registered consumers and over 50 billers from varied industries across Canada. Emergis now offers the same robust, proven technology to billers wanting to deliver electronic bills and statements via their own websites.

Emergis also announced that Bell Canada has selected the Emergis Biller Direct service to enable the online presentment of their customers' telephone bills. For Canada's largest biller, Emergis will customize its Biller Direct solution and closely integrate it into Bell's existing security, content management and marketing systems. With more sophisticated HTML presentment capabilities, the new service will replace Bell's current e-Billing program, and will give Bell greater flexibility and control over how they present bills and communicate with their customers. The service will be launched in Q4 2002, and further establishes Emergis as the premier provider of e-Billing services in Canada. The agreement is expected to generate approximately $3 million of revenue.

"The Emergis Biller Direct service will allow us to significantly enhance our e-Bill service and subsequently accelerate the overall adoption of the Bell e-Billing program," said Eugene Roman, Chief Information and Technology Officer, Bell Canada. "The service gives us greater options and better control over how we communicate with our customers. This means better customer service and ultimately reduced costs as more and more of our customers 'turn off the paper'."

Emergis Biller Direct builds on the strengths and success of the webdoxs EBP solution for those billers wanting the flexibility of delivering electronic bills and statements via their own websites, or in combination with the webdoxs service. Emergis Biller Direct will provide: flexible bill and statement presentment; sophisticated tools to create and manage marketing content within the bill (including campaign management and targeted marketing capabilities for dynamic content presentment based on biller-defined rules); payment enabling capabilities; outsourced services for eBill data processing and day-to-day eBilling operations; and customization and integration into billers' existing systems and environments.

BCE Emergis Delivers on Second Quarter Results

- Revenue reaches $141.9M – up 7.5% sequentially over Q1
- EBITDA (excl. restructuring, other charges) tops $11.4M – $31.9M ahead of Q1
 - Successful execution of cost reduction program
 - Restructuring charge of $100.3M; intangible write-down of $18.7M
- EPS (excl. restructuring, other charges) positive at $0.01 per share

Montreal, July 23, 2002 — BCE Emergis Inc. (TSX: IFM), a leading provider of eCommerce services, today announced its second quarter financial results for the period ending June 30, 2002.

Revenue for the second quarter of 2002 reached $141.9 million compared to $132.0 million for the first quarter of 2002 and to $158.7 million in the second quarter of 2001. Recurring revenue was $128.1 million, $122.1 million and $126.3 million for the three respective periods.

EBITDA* before restructuring and other charges amounted to $11.4 million, compared to an EBITDA loss of $20.5 million in the first quarter of 2002 and to EBITDA of $30.9 million for the second quarter of 2001.

The net loss for the quarter, including restructuring and other charges, was $95.8 million or $0.94 per share, compared to a net loss of $90.6 million or $0.96 per share for the quarter ended June 30, 2001. The charges, which related to a cost-reduction plan that was announced in April 2002, were $100.3 million for severance and exited activities, and $18.7 million for the write-down of acquired technologies and other intangibles. Net earnings before the restructuring and other charges (net of taxes) were $1.3 million or $0.01 per share for the quarter. Cash in the bank at quarter-end totaled $121.0 million.

"This has been an important quarter for Emergis, and we have made real progress in getting back on track," stated Pierre Blouin, CEO of BCE Emergis. "We have focused on and grown our recurring revenue, executed on and taken further a cost reduction and divestiture plan that has now brought our expenses back in line with the revenue base, and generated positive EBITDA and EPS excluding the restructuring and other charges. Equally important, we are encouraged by the level of activity in our pipeline. This quarter is an important first step for Emergis, but it is only the first step."

Blouin continued by making several observations following his first two months in his new position. "Since coming over from BCE, I am impressed with what I have found at Emergis – its recurring revenue base, channel capabilities, operating leverage and the continued support and commitment of BCE. There is a team in place with valuable expertise in eCommerce, and we will look to add to that strength mostly in the sales, customer service and operations areas. We still have much to do – we must focus daily on execution and on our customers, and on delivering and growing through the distribution channels. We will continue to look at refining both our operations and our strategy, all with a view to building more value in Emergis."

Nelson Gentiletti, CFO of BCE Emergis, detailed several examples of the successful execution of the cost-reduction program. He stated that approximately 450 employees and contractors had left the company including 35 senior management positions, reducing the overall workforce to approximately 2,400. Following divestitures and exited activities, the Company expects a workforce of approximately 2,100 by the end of the year. "The cuts were higher than originally planned," he said, noting that once the process had begun, it led to an even more thorough review. Gentiletti also pointed to cost savings generated from the closure of non-core products. Operating expenses for the second quarter were $97.7 million compared to $120.0 million in the first quarter. These moves have restored Emergis to positive operating profitability, with an EBITDA margin of 8% for the quarter. Gentiletti commented, "Going forward we should see a further improvement in the EBITDA margin, given the full effect of the cost cuts over the coming quarters."

Gentiletti continued, "The high percentage of recurring revenue and the operating leverage of the business model has allowed Emergis to return quickly to operating profitability. We will continue to maintain tight cost controls in order to generate improving EBITDA and EPS."

Management change

Following the release of the numbers, Pierre Blouin announced that Nelson Gentiletti would be leaving the company by the end of August. "Nelson has informed me of his decision to leave Emergis. He has made important contributions to the company since his arrival including the execution of our cost reduction exercise in the second quarter. He will be leaving behind a strong finance organization to support the business moving forward."

In responding to Blouin's remarks, Gentiletti commented, "Making the decision to leave the company at this time was difficult, but was the most appropriate one for me at this time in my career. I feel that I am leaving a company that has now realigned its costs, which is sound financially, and which is well positioned to grow. I have enjoyed working with the people at Emergis and am confident they are on the right track." The company has started a search for candidates for the position both externally and in BCE.

Customer and operational highlights

On the eHealth side of the business, Emergis continued to expand its business and presence in this sector.

- Emergis announced that it closed contracts in 2002 that are expected to generate approximately $14 million of recurring revenue annually. These contracts represent clients across North America and span multiple products and services within its health care cost management offerings. In the U.S., these include the primary, secondary and Centers of Excellence provider network services; fee negotiation services; and medical management services. There are now more than 450 clients whose affiliated covered lives may benefit from one or more of these services. These wins increase opportunities to expand electronic health care services within a growing client base for even greater efficiencies and cost savings for our clients.

The U.S. business unit continued to make inroads in the financial services sector:

- Subsequent to quarter end, Emergis announced the expansion of its relationship with Visa, extending the contract signed last year with Visa U.S.A. through the signing of a new agreement with Visa International to support the worldwide development and hosting of Visa Commerce.

The Canadian business continued to make progress:

- The company announced that it acquired e-route inc. from its six shareholders. The financial institutions and Emergis have restructured their working relationship to accelerate and expand the reach of e-route on-line bill presentment system, known as *webdoxs*tm.
- The company announced Biller Direct®, its newest e-Billing service, which can be used as a stand-alone service, or in conjunction with webdoxs consolidator presentment services. Biller Direct enables companies to use their existing web sites to present bills and statements directly to their consumers. They can leverage the content of their online documents to deliver improved customer service and targeted marketing communications. These are key features for billers and give Emergis an added tool in enlarging the base of billers on its webdoxs service.
- Emergis also announced that Bell Canada has selected Emergis Biller Direct Service to enable the online presentment and payment of their customers' telephone bills. Emergis will customize its Biller Direct solution and closely integrate it into Bell's existing security, content management and marketing systems. The service will be launched in Q4 2002.

Business outlook

For the third quarter 2002, the Company is targeting revenue between $135 million and $150 million. The Company is encouraged by the level of activity in its pipeline, but is being cautious in its revenue outlook given the current economic environment and foreign exchange risk. Due to the impact of the cost reduction program that will be fully realized in the second half of the year, the Company is targeting third quarter EBITDA of between $18 million and $26 million, and EPS of between $0.01 and $0.08 per share.

For the year, the Company is targeting revenue at the low end of the guidance range provided on April 5, 2002 owing to persistence of the business conditions referred to above. The Company is still targeting improving double-digit EBITDA margin percentages and positive EPS in the third and fourth quarters.

News Release

BCE Emergis Brings State and National Provider Networks
To Wisconsin-Based Operating Engineers Local 139 Health Benefit Fund
*22nd Contract with Jointly Trusteed Taft-Hartley Fund in Wisconsin

Rockville, MD – August 14, 2002– BCE Emergis (TSX: IFM) announces that its eHealth Solutions Group has added one of Wisconsin's largest union health funds, Operating Engineers Local 139 Health Benefit Fund, to its client roster. Through a three-year agreement valued at C$700,000, BCE Emergis will offer some 8,000 union members access to quality health care services in the state and across the country through BCE Emergis directly contracted provider networks.

For union members, the expanded provider network means more in-network choices and increased savings. Additional savings driven through negotiated discounts and increased administrative efficiencies also mean lower health care costs for the Fund.

"Of the various health care companies reviewed by the Fund, BCE Emergis came out clearly ahead by the quality and scope of its service offering," said Dale White, Executive Vice President of BCE Emergis eHealth Solutions Group, North America. "We have deep-bench experience working with labor unions to improve health care benefits while driving costs down, and are particularly pleased to welcome this group to BCE Emergis because it is the largest union of its type in the state of Wisconsin."

"As our twenty-second contract with Taft-Hartley funds in the state, we view this new relationship as a very special feather in our cap, and we are very proud to have been selected by the Engineers Local 139," said Dr. Faye S. Baggiano, President of BCE Emergis eHealth Solutions Group, North America.

"This new contract is further validation of the growth we have been reporting within our provider network over the last several weeks," she added. "Clearly, the quality and scope of our current services are contributing to our clients' successes today. With the addition of exciting new electronic services to be announced beginning this Fall, we are confident in our ability to expand the market for our electronic solutions within our client base for maximum efficiencies and savings for our clients."

In 2001, the self-funded, self-administered fund paid $60 million in claims. Under the BCE Emergis agreement, the group can expect substantial savings through directly contracted provider agreements—while ensuring quality health care services for members.
